2012 is a hoax, just like Y2K.	Y2K was a recent man-made problem. Thanks to foresight and action, people averted what could have been a real disaster. 2012 is an ancient prophecy.
As a spiritually minded person, I feel it's better to put my attention on creating good rather than on bad things that may not even happen.	Enlightened beings don't have an ostrich mentality. Real attainment comes with awareness, wise choices, and balanced action.
Nobody knows for sure what 2012 will bring. All we can really do is wait and see.	No matter what eventually happens, "just waiting" is the worst thing anyone can do. It wastes time and opportunity.
I'm just one person. I can't change anything.	Each one of us has unlimited power to affect positive change. It just depends how much of that power we're willing to access.
This prophecy has been in place for thousands of years. What's going to happen will happen.	Prophecy is never set in stone. It is simply a warning of what will happen if we do nothing.
It's so much more comfortable not worrying about possible problems.	Real peace of mind only comes when we are prepared spiritually and otherwise.
