The Chinese people have a natural inner understanding of the importance of the use of the jade upon their beings and in their homes as a focus of healing and healing's precipitation ray. Jade should not be simply an ornament worn for display but a holy talisman that conducts the very energies of wholeness throughout the four planes of mater and beyond. When you have jade light within your aura, the action of the blue and yellow light, spun together and manifesting as that beautiful green, creates for you a certain health, a certain wealth of spirit and mind and emotion. The diseases of this day are truly those where the emotional and mental bodies of millions are out of kilter with the divine spirit of wholeness.

When in alignment with the atoms and molecules of not only the jade light but of other aspects of the healing ray, mankind may know true healing, true wholeness. ...///... [O] that many more among mankind would put aside the elements of the mass mind with the bombardment of noise manifesting as so-called music, which is simply a vast cacophony of dissonance that does nothing for the soul and the spirit but attempts to divide and conquer the very inner Self of each one that listens.

Beloved hearts, it is time for mankind to receive the true nature of healing from within. You, as advocates of the path of truth and wholeness, can present to one here and another there your understanding of the true nature of love, wholeness, illumination and cosmic joy. Therefore, I suggest that at least one day per week, you have within your auric forcefield an ounce or more of jade, such that I can project my being and energy through that focus to bring about the renewal of your spiritual fire and the wholeness of body, soul and mind.
