

The Hearts Center Non-Solicitation Policy

Revised December 29, 2007

A Hearts Center event is a time of spiritual communion and an opportunity to enjoy fellowship with one another as we come together from around the world. And it is a time to welcome spiritual seekers, new to our movement, into our fellowship. The Hearts Center events are a forum provided for the benefit of all heartfriends and spiritual seekers. Event direction and activities are chosen with care and designed to support and fulfill our mission to assist each person in knowing a more profound connection with his or her innate divinity.

In doing so we honor each person's chosen spiritual path, and we therefore seek to provide an environment to nurture and support spiritual growth and development in an atmosphere free from solicitation. We ask that all heartfriends and guests respect this goal and the unique purpose of each of The Hearts Center sponsored forums by refraining from the promotion among our attendees of personal business ventures, selling goods or services, or the promotion or practice of alternative spiritual activities during our events, unless they are a part of the approved scheduled program of activities.

Thank you for understanding our vision for Hearts Center events and your cooperation with it. We hope your experience among us will be one of renewal and excitement at the possibilities our unique community may afford you. We are certainly grateful that you have chosen to spend this time of spiritual regeneration with us. If you have any suggestions, questions or proposals about specific events, please see Paul Haugen, our event coordinator.
